Dear Mr. Hamilton:

Many thanks for your statement as to the Hymn-book. I am sending the cheque to the Sermons Committee whose property the Hymn-book is. I am sure that the Committee is deeply indebted to you for the pains that you have been at in selling the book.

Yours sincerely,

President.

The President,

University of Toronto.

Dear Mr. President:-

I regret that I consider it necessary to report to you a number of daring but unsuccessful attempts on the part of two students of the Ontario College of Pharmacy to secure advance copies of Examination Papers from two of our printers and also from a junior pressman. Our Employees in keeping with their instructions which I have given from time to time, promptly reported the occurrences to me and although these students were bold enough to give their names and addresses to our men for delivery of the papers, the latter hesitated through fear to divulge this information to me.

Through the kindness of Professor Heebner I obtained a group photograph of the class and the corresponding names and addresses of the students. I then called in my men individually. My three men approached, positively identified one of these students from the photograph and one of them admitted that his address was that given to him. One of my men was equally positive in identifying the second student and the other two felt reasonably certain. They each reported that this latter student wore a discharged soldier's button and we were in this way also able to establish his identity beyond question. I have therefore these two names in my possession and I hope in the interest of The Press you may deem it advisable to serve some punishment to these students in keeping with their crime.

Yours very truly,

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO PRESS,
